Les Molyneux

Your guide to the Champagne region.

Whether this is the first time you've heard about the region of Champagne (and many people don't know it's a region as well as the famous drink) or you've been here many times, this guide is designed to provide you lots more food for thought about what to do, where to go and what to see in this little-known corner of France. It's for champagne and wine lovers, for nature lovers and walkers, for those of you travelling with children, for those romantics who desire a quiet getaway alone, for foodies and gastronomes who can't wait to try out a new restaurant, for art & culture lovers who just love those old French buildings, and for historians of the Great War, where the front lines were just down the road.

We believe that Champagne is for everyone and we invite you to peruse this guide and then join us. We'd love to make our home, your home!

Dive in, and please let me have your feedback at yvonne@yvonnehalling.com and of course any other questions you may have when planning your next trip.

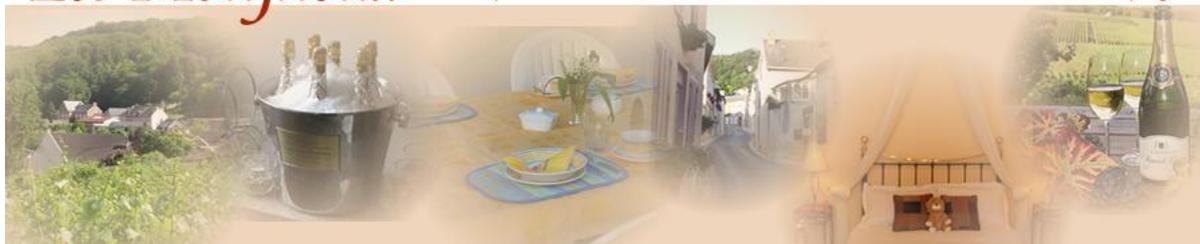

But first, let me tell you a little about who we are and why we're qualified to talk to you about the Champagne region, and, about Les Molyneux our luxury bed and breakfast in the heart of Champagne.

We are Yvonne, Jiles, Chloe and Lucy Halling, and we've been living here in Champagne, France for the most of the past 15 years. We came to Champagne in 1996 with Jiles' job. He worked for 8 years at Moet et Chandon, travelling the world, staying in luxury hotels and drinking champagne! Tough job, but someone had to do it!

In 2000 we bought our lovely home in Verzy, renovated it to our own taste and opened our B&B accommodation in 2001. Since then we have upgraded and enhanced our home, and now we have 4 beautiful rooms for you to choose from. Read on to find out more and how to make the most of your special holiday in Champagne.

If you love champagne, wine and even whisky...

Did you know that there are over 5000 small independent champagne producers in Champagne, and most people can only name a handful. That's because the big international brands have the huge marketing budgets, and the little ones don't. But that doesn't mean that the big brands are better, they just have deeper pockets.

We'd love to help you to discover the passion and dedication of some of the smaller producers' champagne, sometimes called grower champagnes, so we've put together a list of some of our own favourites which is available to you when you visit us.

Festivals, Fairs, Tours, Museums, Champagne Houses and More!

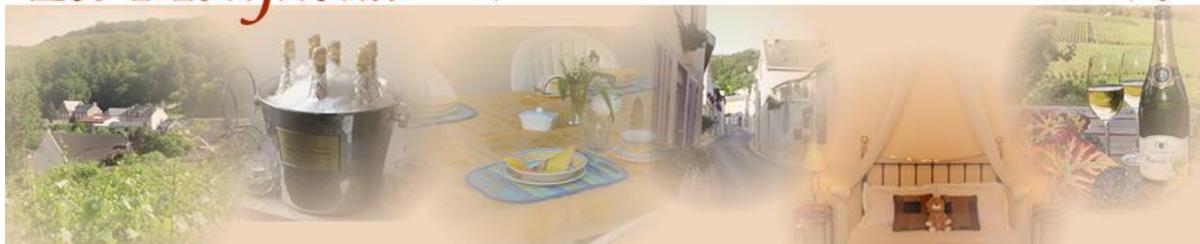

There are also several champagne and wine festivals which take place in the region. The best we've found is the Reims Wine Festival on the 11th, 12th and 13th November in 2011, where literally hundreds of wine and champagne producers from all over France exhibit under one roof. You can chat with the makers, taste the wines, and take home some wonderful new gems, that no-one else has heard of. There are also stalls with oysters, snails, foie gras, chocolates, coffee, and many other specialities of France.

A true delight for wine lovers and foodies alike.

Many village festivals take place in the summer, some of the best ones to visit are: ring Fair in Mailly Champagne. Mailly is a small village on the Montagne de Reims, and every year in May the champagne producers open up their cellars to visitors, where you can just drop in and taste. Speciality foods are on offer too, and you can spend a lovely afternoon, just eating and drinking! You might spot a new champagne you haven't tasted before and of course you can chat with the producers, which is always fun.

If you haven't yet visited one of the big international champagne houses, then we recommend a trip to Moët et Chandon in Epernay. Their cellar tour and tasting is very slick and professional, and you'll learn about the champagne making process, explained in detail by a multi-lingual guide.

Some of the other houses worth visiting are Mercier, which is a great tour for the kids and less mobile members of your party, as the tour takes place in a cellar train. Pommery in Reims is great too, with its Roman chalk cellars, which are quite different from the long tunnels in Epernay. The Romans dug the cellars not for their wine, but for the chalk with which they constructed their houses.

It was later discovered that the temperature in these huge bottle shaped cellars was perfect for storing wine – a happy accident! Ruinart is the oldest champagne house in the region, established in 1727. Its cellars are also worth visiting, but you will need an appointment, as with Bollinger, Taittinger and Roederer.

And if you really want to get into the nitty gritty of how it all works from a vinicultural point of view, then you'll want to take a tour of the vineyards with our friend Nicolas. What he doesn't know about the vines isn't worth knowing. He'll take you off road in one of his 4x4s to the parts of the vineyards that normally can't be reached, and he'll finish off with a champagne tasting, of course.

Don't miss the Whisky Distillery at Louvois. How about trying a single malt from the Montagne de Reims? Strange, but true. You can find out why Thierry Guillon expert whisky maker decided to open a distillery back in 1997 by visiting him at Louvois. A curiosity not to be missed.

Le Phare de Verzenay is a museum of the champagne industry, dating back over 200 years. Situated in a lighthouse originally built by a local producers, it's a fascinating insight into the ways and the sufferings of the champenois. Life hasn't always been bubbly for the people of this region.

Le Pre en Bulles at Trepail is a wonderful experience for champagne lovers. A journey into the art, costume, champagne making and photography of the region.

If you love walking and exploring nature..

The fabulous Parc Nationale de la Montagne de Reims is dotted with forests, and you can choose any one of them to explore. You can get lots of information at the Park Office.

There is a huge forest next to the village of Verzy, where some rare beech trees grow. They are known as "Les Faux" and they only grow in three places in the world, here, near Malmo in Sweden, and near Hanover in Germany. No-one really knows how they came to be, but here in Verzy, it is thought that the monks of the ancient abbey of St Basle (which is no longer there) planted them, but it's by no means certain. Les Faux is a national monument.

The forest walks go on for miles around the region, and you can find peace and tranquility exploring on your own with a local map, which you can purchase from the Tourist Office in Epernay. The trails are marked or you can go off-trail whenever you wish. You can also walk in the vineyards, as long as you don't touch the precious vines.

Verzy is also on one of the old pilgrim trails leading to Rome or to St Jacques- de-Compostelle in Spain. Many people embark on this journey for all sorts of reasons. Some are going all the way, taking about 3 or 4 months, and some are just taking a week out to experience the solitude of the trail. Some take a couple of weeks out every year and gradually make their way to the end over a number of years.

There is also a disused railway line passing next to the village, called the CBR, which means chemin de fer de la banlieue de Reims (Reims suburban railway). You can walk along this for miles as well.

For bird lovers, there is the Lac du Der, near Troyes which is about an hour's drive south. The migration of the grey cranes in February is a spectacular sight to witness.

If you're looking for a romantic break...

What better place to choose than Champagne! Apart from the delightfully romantic notion of the region and the drink, there are lots of other ways to surprise and delight your partner.

Take a romantic balloon ride over the vineyards with Air Tonic

Every day (weather permitting) from April to the end of September, they are available to whisk you and your partner off, floating high above the vineyards and forests, and finishing with a delightful champagne tasting afterwards.

What about a tour in a horse-drawn carriage? Les Attelages de Verzenay are offering several tours of the vineyards around Verzenay, where you will relax and unwind as the beautiful Haflinger horses trot at their own speed through the surrounding countryside. Your guide is Thierry Georgeton.

Or how about cruising on the River Marne? Your evening cruise on the beautiful River Marne will include dinner, cabaret and dancing.

You can rent your very own motor boat from Blue Nautic in Epernay (without a licence!) and gently navigate the River Marne just the two of you. Pack your picnic and your chilled bottle of bubbly for a great experience.

And to relax and unwind with your partner, try the luxurious Bozen Spa in Epernay.

All in all, it does seem that the French do love and romance very well!

Travelling with the children?

There are many childrens' activities in Champagne. Here are some of our favourites:

Arbroxygene, Verzy is a great place for active kids. There are three tree top circuits to navigate depending on how brave you are, with zip wires, tree ladders, and wobbly rope bridges. Afterwards, for the adults, why not take a glass of champagne in the brand new Perching Bar, a bar literally built in the trees. The view is amazing.

Canoeing and water based activities are great for the whole family. The experience starts at Tours sur Marne where you leave your car and the bus takes you to the starting point. Your boat trip can last as long as you wish and you arrive back at where you left your car. Pack a picnic and enjoy the scenery.

Zig Zag Parc at Val de Vesle, where there's a huge maze, a 400m long zip wire, bouncy castles and lots of fun activities for children who love to be outside and running around.

The Nature Park at Sept Saulx is a great day out for the family too. The whole park is centred on a natural peat bog where rare birds live, and you can take a rowing boat out on the water. There's also a play area and picnic area. A great day out.

La Ferme Vertuelle, Louvois

Run by eccentric Jérôme and his wife Brigitte, La Ferme Vertuelle is a menagerie of animals, birds and children. Lots of hands on animal interaction with games and surprises in store for your little ones.

Do you like swimming? The indoor swimming complex Bulleo in Epernay has a large olympic-sized pool, and three smaller pools for the wave machine, the giant water slide and a little pool for the toddlers.

Art and architecture lovers...

For those who love art and architecture, then Reims with its magnificent gothic cathedral, the Palais de Tau and the Basilic St Remi represents three UNESCO World Heritage sites. The cathedral is particularly renowned for its stained glass windows by Marc Chagall.

The monthly antiques fair takes place at the Parc des Expositions in Reims on the first Sunday of every month. Antique lovers from all over Europe gather here looking for the best pieces at the best prices. Maybe you could go home with a beautiful antique at a great price!

There's also a permanent antiques exhibition at Champagne Castelnau. Plus exploring the various Depots de Vente around the region is always fun.

For historians of the Great War

It's hard to believe that less than 100 years ago the Marne was the front line of the German assault on Europe, and many memories remain. Cemeteries are everywhere, in memory of those who perished. Visit the museum at Suippes, or at Fort de la Pompelle which was built during the Franco Prussian war and which played an important part in the Great War. The American Cemetery at Belleau Wood is also a moving experience.
